

Wedding ceremony speech

Dear fiances,

in the historic settings of the Residence of Mayor of Prague you are about to experience an extraordinary moment. After mutual consent, you have decided to enter marriage.

The moments of celebration, you are now experiencing, are not only a short and happy blink, but a life-changing milestone, when your life paths join into one.

At this point, it is certainly your greatest desire to be happy together. If you follow in your lives the saying "Everything we do for others enriches us", you will certainly bring happiness not only to yourselves but also to those you care about most.

Expressing love to your life-partner, supporting him or her in every situation and tolerating his or her weaknesses may seem obvious and easy now. Only the time will tell whether your relationship is strong enough to withstand all of life's trials without harm.

The stronger the marriage, the easier it is to overcome any problems life might pose in front of you. And you do encounter obstacles in your life, take these words of wisdom: „much can be overcome by the power of your soul, your faith or your hope. But mutual love can overcome all.“

The success or failure of a marriage depends only on those who have entered it together... so it is now up to you both.

While milestones are an important part of life, most of it actually consists of everyday matters. I therefore believe that you will remain able to enjoy the little things in life, have fun and live with joy. For your life together, I wish you plenty of all that is a condition for happiness: healthy adaptability, the right dose of perseverance and the ability to always forgive each other.

Let me conclude with words from classic: "I appreciate love as the supreme and unique in man, the only true gift from the heavens. Who has it is more beautiful than the other, is more powerful than all and one can do whatever he desires to.

Once again, I wish you a lot of luck, happiness and strength to stand by each other under all circumstances.
